Isaiah 58:10-11

Feed the hungry and help those in trouble. Then your light will shine out from the darkness, and the darkness around you will be as bright as noon. The LORD will guide you continually, giving you water when you are dry and restoring your strength. You will be like a well-watered garden, like an ever-flowing spring.

Dear Friends of EMM,

The quote from Isaiah speaks in part to the transformation that occurs when we reach beyond ourselves to help others in need. For the past 80+ years Episcopal Migration Ministries (EMM) has offered a fresh start to individuals at risk because of their beliefs and so forced to flee their homes for safety. Individuals who come to the U.S. as refugees, and those who offer them welcome as new Americans, have had their lives transformed, each in their own unique way.

In the past few years, there was a decline in those offered such a fresh start, but as a nation we are now embarking on a renewal of the program assisting refugees to our country. EMM, the refugee and migration ministry of The Episcopal Church, welcomes refugees, educates communities, and mobilizes congregations to advocate for the protection and rights of all migrants. In the pages of this annual report you will find the work that was accomplished by EMM to carry out its mission for The Church.

Beyond the facts and figures reported here are the individual stories of refugees and asylees, of volunteers and donors, of affiliate staff and community and congregational members, who make up a mosaic that form a picture of lives that each have been touched and transformed by this work.

I want to thank all of you who stood beside EMM and supported our work. As we enter 2021, I am optimistic that The Church will be able to assist even more of the most vulnerable and at risk individuals in the world. EMM will be able to continue its work, thanks in large part to your continued engagement and support. So, I urge you to get involved and contact us. We want to hear from you how we can assist and help you engage in this work.

Peace, Demetrio

- Interfaith Refugee Ministry New Bern, NC
- Bridge Refugee Services, Inc. Knoxville, TN
- Refugee Services of Texas, Inc. Austin, TX
- Interfaith Ministries for Greater Houston Houston, TX
- Refugee Resettlement Office Seattle, WA

The intensive case management services aimed at assisting clients achieve their self-sufficiency were provided to minor individuals (under 18 years old), single-parent households, elderly people, LGBT clients, HIV-positive clients, individuals with social/psychological conditions or risk of suicide, individuals struggling from substance abuse, ill or disabled, secondary migrants and survivors of torture or sexual gender-based violence.

In the course of 29,087 hours of specialized case management provided to their clients in FY2020, these ten Preferred Communities programs engaged with 279 volunteers who provided 2,847 hours of their time to assist the most vulnerable amongst us. The Preferred Communities programs also assisted 42 clients utilizing Episcopal Migration Ministries' Emergency Funding Assistance funds, and 143 individuals were provided with immigration status services such as applications for lawful permanent residence as well as assistance with naturalization process.

Impacts of COVID-19

EMM, through the use of Supplemental Funding provided by the Office of Refugee Resettlement (ORR), engaged in cross-collaboration with affiliates in hiring a consultant to develop and conduct a 6-week Digital Literacy training course to enhance the service delivery in times of remote case management. Through course instruction and collaboration across the network, case managers learned methods to better connect with their clients and utilize tools to technologically empower their clients, many of whom were digitally illiterate prior to the COVID-19 pandemic. In a concerted effort to enable clients to participate more actively in remote Preferred Communities program service delivery and critical virtual medical appointments, the affiliates utilized a portion of the Supplemental Funding to provide their clients laptops, tablets, and phones to their caseload. Funds were also utilized across the network to implement local COVID-19 outreach and education efforts to the ORR-eligible population, ensure the clients' safe and reliable access to fresh foods, as well as provide personal protective equipment, COVID-19 care packages, and transportation to critical appointments where public transportation was no longer a viable option.

Office of Refugee Resettlement (RRO) Seattle, WA

In response to a growing sense of isolation among Preferred Communities program clients in Seattle, Washington, RRO utilized a portion of the Supplemental Funding to implement a series of safe outdoor group activities, emphasizing education and mental health. Four hiking trips were organized for elderly and youth clients. During these hikes, the affiliate staff and clients discussed prevention and coping strategies during the COVID-19 pandemic. Pottery classes were also provided to children while their parents received COVID-19 education.

Bridge Refugee Services Knoxville, TN

In collaboration with two local multicultural groups, Bridge Refugee Services utilized a portion of the Preferred Communities program Supplemental Funding to conduct outreach to primary populations regarding federal and local health department guidelines. Videos in Swahili, Kinyarwanda, and Arabic were produced and disseminated to the local refugee population. After this first round of outreach and education, Bridge identified key persisting myths and stigmas that remained pervasive in the Congolese community, as well as what methods of teaching and information sharing were most effective in achieving learning objectives. In response, Bridge partnered with a local community organization to produce culturally appropriate and educational roleplay drama.

Interfaith Refugee Ministry New Bern, NC

The COVID-19 pandemic forced school closures and virtual education in New Bern, North Carolina, which was a significant challenge for a minor Preferred Communities program client suffering from attention-deficit/hyperactivity disorder. With the client's guardian's support, Interfaith Refugee Ministry's PC program utilized creative tools such as a weighted blanket and wiggle chair to improve the client's engagement with virtual learning. The client and the guardian reported and welcomed benefits in the areas of overall sleep quality, function, and behavior. Benefits were noticed both within and beyond remote classes.

Saint Francis Migration Ministries (SFMM) Wichita, KS

SFMM utilized a portion of the Supplemental Funding to address mental health concerns and food insecurity. After SFMM received the Supplemental Funding award, it surveyed Preferred Communities program client needs. As a result, the staff recognized the trend of clients reporting increased anxiety, stress, and isolation. Clients reported feeling the need to leave home for their mental health but having fewer places to go than ever before due to COVID-19. Through this assessment, SFMM selected four clients to participate in a gardening program, allowing clients to cultivate their own produce. Clients reported significant improvement in mental health and financial savings as they now enjoyed access to vegetables grown at home. A local farm owner learned of this activity and has expressed interest in partnering with SFMM to expand this project and increase access.

Matching Grant

During a year of low arrivals and challenges due to the global pandemic, EMM's Matching Grant (MG) network was able to use most of their slots and maintain high self-sufficiency rates. EMM enrolled 292 clients in regular MG services and served 8 clients enrolled in MG extended services. EMM's network self-sufficiency rate for FY2020 is 76.50%. Furthermore, EMM's efforts to reach out to asylee populations across the network have been very successful. EMM served a total of 18 asylee clients in Houston, Syracuse, Knoxville and Minneapolis.

Despite the impacts of COVID-19, EMM's MG partners have continued to work hard to forge new connections with employers, cultivate innovative employer and community support networks, and develop new employment training and counseling programs focused on both short- and long-term self-sufficiency goals. EMM affiliates have also worked to offer job placement and job counseling to those served through the COVID-19 outbreak.

Program Highlight

Interfaith Refugee Ministry (IRM) New Bern, NC – VOLT Center/ Craven Community College

Craven Community College VOLT Center offers free plumbing, construction, welding, electrical, trade-related trainings to approximately 700 students a year in New Bern. The Executive Director of the Volt Center has been working with IRM for five years, enrolling IRM's clients in training programs where they can obtain accreditation upon graduation that is valid throughout the U.S. Once the clients express their interest, the VOLT Center's intake instructors help IRM's clients to choose programs. The Volt Center has solid business partnerships with companies that regularly contact the center and actively hire IRM's clients.

Due to the impacts of COVID-19, the Volt Center remained closed upon "shelter-in-place" order for months and later started providing training to students practicing social distancing and wearing masks in warehouses.

The Impact of COVID-19

Bridge Refugee Services – Chattanooga, TN: Tech Goes Home Chattanooga

"To address technology gaps assessed during COVID, Bridge reached out to the local non-profit TechGoesHomeChattanooga (TGHC) to seek partnership in providing digital literacy training and computers to refugees. In the fall, TGHC will train 5 Bridge volunteers (Train a Trainer model) in how to teach computer literacy to refugee populations. Bridge set a goal of providing digital literacy training for 10 refugee households by the end of FY21. All of them will receive a Chromebook from TGHC at the completion of training. This will allow refugees not only to successfully continue learning language, it will also allow them to have access to various on-line resources in numerous aspects of life in the U.S."

Interfaith Works of Central New York (IFW) – Syracuse, NY:

"Since COVID-19, IFW started telephonic well-checks with current and former clients and discovered significant technology needs. In response, IFW secured $30,000 in individual donations and a foundation grant to distribute 16 laptops and TVs and will provide more, with a technology consultant to assist with new devices."

Interfaith Ministries for Greater Houston – Houston, TX:

Virtual For All Humanity Lunch-in was held virtually this year and included a panel with successful immigrants in Houston and musical performances from the Houston Symphony and the MG Coordinator Augustin Socorro, among other things.

Thanks to the generosity of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints Fundraising

EMM affiliates have used goods from the LDS commodities grant to directly support clients affected physically or economically by the COVID-19 pandemic. During the beginning of the pandemic, several affiliate offices regularly provided household supply boxes and pantry kits filled with Bishop Storehouse goods to clients who were in need or who were undergoing quarantine or isolation. These care packages were necessary to provide clients with essential household items that were limited in the local grocery store.
